medical resources. Remember, birds use the muscle around the sternum to move air through the respiratory system.